

Pizza

Lilly: WILL YOU PLEASE STOP TALKING ABOUT PIZZA? I would love to have some more pizza but I don't have anymore money. So just go away.

Anna: I'm sorry Lilly. I'd be happy to lend you some lunch money.

Lilly: (matter of factly) I couldn't pay it back. I usually bring a lunch from home but my Mom hasn't bought any food for awhile and there wasn't anything to pack. I had some money saved so I bought lunch today.

Anna: (unbelieving) You don't have any food in your house?

Lilly: (shrugs) It's no big deal. Mom just forgets sometimes but she'll buy some soon. It's okay.

Anna: (shocked) It is NOT okay. Lilly, no one just forgets to buy food. What's wrong with your Mom?

Lilly: NOTHING IS WRONG WITH MY MUM!

Anna: Lilly mum's don't forget to buy food...

Lilly: She just has a lot going on... She's sad a lot... When she's sad nothing makes it better... And she forgets things...

Anna: Have you told anyone...

Lilly: Who do I have to tell...

Anna: Well you've told me now... why don't we go speak to Mrs. Patterson.

Lilly: I can't do that! Mum will get in trouble and that will make her sad

Anna: I think you should but I can't make you, why don't you come to my house for tea, my mum wont mind

Lilly: I should really go home and see my mums okay, but thanks.
